1. [REDACTED] Comment. The Cairo Peace Conference was originally scheduled for 7 January 1952. It was stated in Alger Républicain (communist daily) of 24 January 1952 that the conference would take place between 10 and 15 February, and that some 15 delegates were already known, among them Communists, Nationalists, oulemas, laborers, and intellectuals. Most recent reports indicate that the conference has been indefinitely postponed.
